

Lisa Parhad for Ripple Editor

My manifesto

This is a pledge to those who own the future,

An innovative paper for the hearts, minds and souls of students is going to be yours come September 2010, providing that you vote for LISA PARHAD as your editor.

Fuelled by the lives we lead I promise that with a Ripple team, I will deliver the following:

+ Wider distribution to ensure all writers will find themselves with a large reading base and the opportunity to promote your work and your name (distribution in the city centre is also undergoing consideration, to let the city know who we are and what we do here at Leicester University).

+ An events page will inform you of where you want to be. This will include nightlife, art exhibitions, gigs, festivals, society socials etc. (ANY EVENT YOU WANT TO ADVERTISE WILL BE PUBLISHED HERE.)

+ A feedback page to give volume to your voice - letters to the editor, comments on articles, comments on the Student Union, general debate will all take place here and what's more we will listen to your views of the paper and tailor it to your needs and desires.

+ Regular art, photography and literature competitions will support the creative's amongst us and give them the recognition they deserve.

+ A thriving features section with an eclectic set of writers producing entertaining entries.

+ Reviews on your music; student bands and artists will be reviewed and ultimately promoted here - I want to give you all the opportunities you need to succeed.

+ A house-hunting, job-seeking, career-building page will give you a hand with all your requirements.

I will be working closely with a team of graphic designers to compose a newspaper that will differ from those you've seen here before.

This University is part of our LIFE and I want this paper to reflect that.

Research will go into making the Leicester University Ripple a brand new, WINNING newspaper.
